

Holonomix-developed integration adapter harnesses the power of next-generation Voyence and EMC Smarts solutions

LONDON, 15th May 2006: Holonomix, the UK's leading Network Management systems integrator has been selected by Voyence to develop its EMC Smarts integration adapter.

"Holonomix's deep understanding of the power of VoyenceControl and EMC Smarts solutions combined with extensive experience of real-world customer operational requirements made them the ideal partner to help bring this exciting new Voyence integration product to market", says Darren Orzechowski, vice president of marketing, Voyence.

The Java and Web Services API-level integration adapter, developed by Holonomix, automates the synchronisation of VoyenceControl network configuration events and topology information with EMC SMARTS Service Assurance and IP Availability Managers. Network configuration and change events can now be viewed alongside other network faults and impact events within the EMC Smarts Global Operations console. The adapter also allows SMARTS operators to drill down 'in context' to detailed VoyenceControl NG device and job views directly from the SMARTS console.

"EMC Smarts is the market-leading network fault management solution", said Holonomix Managing Director, Darren Prince. "However many organisations recognise that configuration and change-related events are responsible for a high-percentage of service-impacting faults". Prince goes on to say "By combining SMARTS ability to detect availability and performance failures with the sophisticated configuration and change management capabilities of VoyenceControl NG, customers can now gain deeper insight and visibility of the real root causes of service-impacting problems"

Holonomix will be providing live demonstrations of the integration adapter interacting with SMARTS and Voyence solutions on both vendor stands during TeleManagement World (TMW) in Nice, France (15-18th May 2006) Attendees can learn about the additional business benefits to be gained from leveraging the power of both solutions.
